Do California Labor Laws Confuse You?

Avoid possible fines of up to $17,000.00 with a few simple tools

2010 California and Federal Employment Poster

State and federal laws require employers to display 16 required notices in a conspicuous spot in the workplace or face fines of up to $17,000. One required poster (the federal Equal Employment Opportunity notice) has changed. Are your posters up-to-date?
For your convenience, all the required notices have been gathered together in one place -- the 2010 California and Federal Employment Poster, available through the Elk Grove Chamber. The non-laminated poster is ideal for indoor display. If your poster location is exposed to weather or moisture, consider buying a laminated poster.
